Phil Corbo represents OLSS and ACTEC at the 60th Annual Heckerling Institute on Estate Planning

Phil Corbo represented the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel at the 60th Annual Heckerling Institute on Estate Planning in Orlando last week.

Heckerling draws thousands of estate planning professionals annually, making it one of the most significant gatherings in the wealth transfer and tax planning field. At the ACTEC booth, Phil discussed the organization's fellowship nomination and election process with attendees, as well as the professional benefits of ACTEC membership for estate planning practitioners.

We're proud to have Phil representing OLSS and the broader estate planning community in this important role.
